Virtual presentations Friday October 11, 2024

Our virtual ANZARME 2024 conference is specifically created to provide delegates unable to attend the face-to-face event from around the globe to share their latest research work, via live streamed academic presentations, discussions and Q&A sessions. The conference will take place across a 12-hour period of Friday October 11, 2024, to support our global attendees. Once accepted, schedules will be organised to best facilitate time zones that are manageable for delegate located across Australia, Canada/USA, Europe, and ASIA. As is custom for the ANZARME conference, all presenters are expected to be in attendance for their entire session, to support and network with other delegates from around the world. Students, new career and experienced music teachers and researchers are encouraged to attend. Several esteemed prizes are available for presenters at the conference <https://anzarme.com.au/awards/awards/>. We look forward to your contribution and hope to see you in Auckland this year. Submissions are reviewed in order of receipt.
